-- Files Supplement to Proxy Statement for Annual Meeting to be Held on February 16, 2017; Stockholders of Record as of January 24, 2017 Eligible to Vote at Annual Meeting --

Morris Plains, NJ, January 9, 2017 --- Immunomedics, Inc. (NASDAQ: IMMU) (öImmunomedicsö or öthe Companyö) today announced a newly reconstituted Board of Directors and the implementation of a leadership succession plan.

Effective immediately, Immunomedics has appointed four new, highly qualified and experienced independent directors:

- É Jason Aryeh, founder and managing general partner of JALAA Equities, LP;
- É Dr. Geoffrey Cox, principal of Beacon Street Advisors LLC;
- É Robert Forrester, President and Chief Executive Officer, Verastem, Inc; and
- É Bob Oliver, President and Chief Executive Officer, Otsuka America Pharma, Inc.

Mr. Aryeh has been appointed to the additional position of Vice Chairman of the Board of Directors. In addition, each of these new independent directors will chair a Board committee, which will be composed entirely of independent board members. In connection with the appointment of the new independent directors, Don C. Stark and Mary E. Paetzold have retired from the Board, effective immediately.

The Company also announced today a succession plan intended to establish optimal future leadership upon a partnership of IMMU-132 and ensure continued progress of the Company without interruption during this critical period in its growth trajectory:

- É Effective June 30, 2017, Jason Aryeh will assume the role of Chairman of the Immunomedics Board.
- É Dr. David M. Goldenberg, current Chairman, will transition his role, effective June 30, 2017. He will continue as a Board member and in his roles as Chief Scientific Officer and Chief Patent Officer.
- É The Board will immediately initiate a search for a new CEO, with the assistance of a leading, independent, executive search firm as it gains clarity on an outcome of its ongoing exploration of a partnership for IMMU-132.
- É Cynthia Sullivan, Chief Executive Officer and President of the Company, will step down upon the Company's filing for Accelerated Approval of IMMU-132 to the Food and Drug Administration, which is expected to occur in mid-2017.

“As we continue to position Immunomedics for the future and seek to deliver on the value potential of IMMU-132, we determined to reconstitute the Immunomedics Board and announce a leadership succession plan, both of which we believe will help advance our efforts with IMMU-132 and facilitate the achievement of important upcoming value creation milestones,” said Brian A. Markison, independent director and head of the transaction committee of the Board. “Messrs. Aryeh, Dr. Cox, Forrester and Oliver bring to Immunomedics decades of pharmaceuticals and life sciences experience and have extensive expertise developing, partnering and commercializing treatments, including at some of the world’s most recognizable and reputable global pharmaceutical companies. We expect that they will immediately leverage their decades of deep industry knowledge and public company board service and leadership to further advance the value potential of IMMU-132 and our additional preclinical and clinical programs. We also appreciate the significant contributions of Mr. Stark and Ms. Paetzold during their years of service to the Board. On behalf of the entire Board, we wish them well in their future endeavors.”

Jason Aryeh, independent director and Vice Chairman of the Board, said, “I am honored to be named Vice Chairman and to serve as a fiduciary for our stockholders. My three highly respected new Board colleagues and I are excited to be a part of this comprehensive leadership succession plan. We believe there are tremendous opportunities for Immunomedics to deliver significant value for our stockholders.”

Immunomedics believes that the reconstituted Board and the succession plan announced today address the matters raised by venBio Select Advisors, one of the Company’s stockholders, with regard to the composition of the Board and future leadership. Immunomedics anticipates that these actions will allow the Company to move forward without the distraction of a proxy contest so that the Board and management can fully focus on achieving expected near-term value creating events and milestones.

The four newly appointed directors, in addition to Immunomedics’ three incumbent directors, will stand for election at the Company’s 2016 Annual Meeting of Stockholders to be held on February 16, 2017. The Company today filed the supplement to the proxy statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) in connection with its upcoming Annual Meeting to stockholders unanimously recommending that they vote on the WHITE proxy card “FOR” all seven of Immunomedics’ highly qualified director nominees:

- ✓ Jason Aryeh
- ✓ Dr. Geoffrey Cox
- ✓ Robert Forrester
- ✓ Dr. David M. Goldenberg
- ✓ Brian A. Markison
- ✓ Bob Oliver
- ✓ Cynthia L. Sullivan

Stockholders of record as of January 24, 2017, are entitled to vote at the 2016 Annual Meeting.

About Immunomedics

Immunomedics is a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company developing monoclonal antibody-based products for the targeted treatment of cancer, autoimmune disorders and other serious diseases. Immunomedics' advanced proprietary technologies allow the Company to create humanized antibodies that can be used either alone in unlabeled or "naked" form, or conjugated with radioactive isotopes, chemotherapeutics, cytokines or toxins. Using these technologies, Immunomedics has built a pipeline of eight clinical-stage product candidates. Immunomedics' portfolio of investigational products includes antibody-drug conjugates (ADCs) that are designed to deliver a specific payload of a chemotherapeutic directly to the tumor while reducing overall toxic effects that are usually found with conventional administration of these chemotherapeutic agents. Immunomedics' most advanced ADCs are sacituzumab govitecan (IMMU-132) and labetuzumab govitecan (IMMU-130), which are in Phase 2 trials for a number of solid tumors and metastatic colorectal cancer, respectively. IMMU-132 has received Breakthrough Therapy Designation from the FDA for the treatment of patients with triple-negative breast cancer who have failed at least two prior therapies for metastatic disease. Immunomedics has a research collaboration with Bayer to study epratuzumab as a thorium-227-labeled antibody. Immunomedics has other ongoing collaborations in oncology with independent cancer study groups. The IntreALL Inter-European study group is conducting a large, randomized Phase 3 trial combining epratuzumab with chemotherapy in children with relapsed acute lymphoblastic leukemia at clinical sites in Australia, Europe, and Israel. Immunomedics also has a number of other product candidates that target solid tumors and hematologic malignancies, as well as other diseases, in various stages of clinical and preclinical development. These include combination therapies involving its antibody-drug conjugates, bispecific antibodies targeting cancers and infectious diseases as T-cell redirecting immunotherapies, as well as bispecific antibodies for next-generation cancer and autoimmune disease therapies, created using its patented DOCK-AND-LOCK® protein conjugation technology. The Company believes that its portfolio of intellectual property, which includes approximately 304 active patents in the United States and more than 400 foreign patents, protects its product candidates and technologies.
